Justice Department Prepares Evidence

20th Freed Of Charges In Rights Trio Slayings

BULLETIN
BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — At the request of the Justice Department, a woman U.S. commissioner today freed a 20th man arrested last week in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department prepared today to present its evidence to a federal grand jury against 19 men freed of charges in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers.

Federal attorneys were stunned Thursday when U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter ruled out a purported confession at a preliminary hearing. When the Justice Department refused to proceed, she dismissed the conspiracy charges against the men, thus freeing them. They were among 21 white men arrested Dec. 4.

It will be up to U.S. Dist.

Judge Harold Cox at Jackson to convene the grand jury but Robert Owen, Justice Department attorney, said, "We will ask that a grand jury be called as soon as possible."

Another man, James Jordan, was to have a hearing today at Biloxi, Miss., before U.S. Commissioner Verta Lee Sweetman. Jordan, who was arrested in his hometown of Gulfport Friday, was not affected by the Meridian action.

No date was set for a preliminary hearing for the 21st man, Horace D. Barnett, who was arrested in Shreveport, La.

When Miss Carter ruled against the testimony of an FBI agent, Owen declined to put up additional evidence.

Then the gray-haired commissioner said she had no alternative but to grant a defense motion to throw out the charges.

"The defendants are discharged," she said, and ordered their release from bonds of $3,500 to $5,000.

The defendants, including Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and his deputy, Cecil Price, left the Meridian Courthouse free of all charges only six days after their arrest in a roundup by FBI agents.

The dramatic moment in the hearing came with the first and only witness, FBI agent Henry Rask of Atlanta. Owen asked the agent if he had interviewed Barnett, one of 10 men the FBI had charged with taking part in the slayings.

Rask testified he interviewed Barnett, 25, of Cullen, La., and formerly of Meridian, on Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

"Did you obtain from him a signed confession?" the short, broad-faced Owen inquired quietly. There was complete silence in the packed courtroom.

"I did," Rask said.

Slated To Recount Events Leading To Mission In Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak goes before the Security Council today to reply to African charges that Belgium landed paratroops in Stanleyville in an attempt to wipe out the Congo rebel force.

A Belgian source said Spaak would recount events that led up to the U.S.-Belgian mission which rescued some 1,700 whites held hostage by the rebels.

Spaak was expected to emphasize that Belgium brought Congo Premier Moise Tshombe and rebel leader Christopher Gbenye together last summer in a vain attempt to end the revolt.

Both Spaak and U.S. authorities have insisted that the Stanleyville mission was not a military operation but was purely humanitarian, to save the lives of European men, women and children held captive.

The Belgian minister has stressed that the quick withdrawal of the paratroops was concrete proof of the humanitarian nature of the mission. He has accused the Soviet Union of resorting to "cold war tactics" in charging that the Belgian action reflected colonial aspirations.

Since the Congo debate began Wednesday, a chorus of African nations have accused the United States and Belgium of murderous motives in emotion-charged speeches that shocked Western delegates.

There was speculation the United States would make a stinging reply and challenge the African critics to explain their own motives in backing the rebel cause.

Algerian Ambassador Tewfik Bouattour, the last speaker Thursday, declared that the Western press was more shocked by the killing of 80 white hostages in the Congo than by the "tens of thousands of Africans slaughtered by the Congolese army."

The Africans also have loosed a hail of invective against Tshombe, who arrives in New York Saturday. He will present his own charges that Algeria, Ghana and the United Arab Republic are sending military supplies to the Congo rebels and the Soviet Union is backing this.

Intruders Obtain $65 In Safe At Columbian

COLUMBIANA — Burglars netted about $65 in cash when they forced open a safe at Keylor's Sunoco Service Station on Route 14 at the outskirts of the village sometime late Thursday or early today.

Police Chief William McGuckin said the safe-cracking was discovered about 7 a. m. when the owner, Hyde Keylor, opened the station. The station was closed at 11 p. m. Thursday. McGuckin said entry was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the building and entering the office where the safe was located. Nothing else was reported disturbed. Police are continuing the investigation.

Rains Will Continue Daily Over Weekend

The Tri-State District can expect a wet but mild weekend with occasional light rains or showers due almost daily. The light rain started early today and the temperature hit 40 downtown at 7 a. m. Tonight's low range will be 42 to 46.

Saturday will be a little cooler but only small day-to-day temperature changes will occur through Tuesday.

Space Rocket In Orbit

Model Of Moonship Scores Test Flight Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Atlas-Centaur space rocket registered a much-needed test flight success today, hurling its two-ton Centaur second stage and metal model of a moonship into a precise orbit around the earth.

The orbit, a circular path 103 miles high, is the course the Centaur stage must achieve on future unmanned moon and planetary launchings.

The success was the second in four test flights for the Atlas-Centaur. It heralded a possible end to problems which have harassed the rocket and have put it about three years behind schedule.

Continued success might enable it to plant a Project Surveyor spacecraft on the moon late next year. Packed in the Centaur's nose today was a 2,100-pound chunk of metal with the same weight and center of mass as the Surveyor. It was rigged with instruments to measure vibrations and temperature, but was not to separate from the Centaur stage.

The 112-foot tall booster rode away from Cape Kennedy at 9:25 a.m. EST on the power generated by the first stage Atlas. The Centaur upper stage, burning high-energy liquid hydrogen, fired for 5½ minutes and drilled itself into the planned orbit.

This was the third successful space launching at Cape Kennedy in four days.

On Tuesday a space glider was launched on a suborbital flight to test techniques for future spaceships designed to maneuver and land like conventional aircraft.

Thursday the Air Force launched a Titan 3A military space rocket on a successful orbital flight.

The only black mark during the week was an attempt Wednesday to launch an unmanned model of the Project Gemini man-in-space capsule. The launching was frustrated at the last second because of trouble which forced shutdown of the engines after they had ignited.

The Atlas-Centaur accuracy today was made possible by flawless performance of an inertial guidance system which was steering the rocket for the first time. On previous shots, the guidance package was carried as a passenger and its potential performance monitored while a separate control system directed the course.

Air Defense To Be Beefed Up, Report From Saigon Says

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam announced today the United States has agreed to an across-the-board increase in aid in the war against the Communist Viet Cong and hinted that the war will soon be expanded outside this country.

"The U.S. government has offered additional military and economic assistance to improve the execution of the government's programs and to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong," a communique said.

This development was disclosed as the Buddhist hierarchy called on the United States in a letter to Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor for support in a campaign to oust Premier Tran Van Huong's civilian administration. Top Buddhist leaders met in a council of war.

A U.S. spokesman said the government's communique had been prepared after consultations with the U.S. mission here, but that the mission would have no comment.

The communique said the air defenses of South Viet Nam will be strengthened, implying that more U.S. fighters and other equipment were on the way.

The communique did not spell out what forms the new American aid will take.

A U.S. official said some provisions will be kept secret for security reasons and other aspects have not been fully worked out. Consultations between the American mission and the Huong government will continue, he said.

Taylor met with Huong today for the third time since the ambassador returned from Washington last Sunday.

The communique said in part:

"The U.S. government has offered additional military and economic assistance to improve the execution of the government's programs and to restrain the mounting infiltration of men and equipment by the Hanoi regime in support of the Viet Cong."

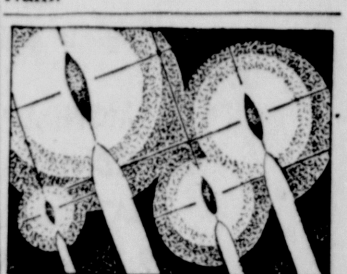

"The government of Viet Nam has accepted this offer of support, which includes provision for increased numbers of military, paramilitary and police forces, the strengthening of the air defense of South Viet Nam, and further economic assistance for a variety of forms of industrial, urban and rural development."

"For its part, the government of Viet Nam is reviewing ways of increasing the scope and effectiveness of its programs related to the development of security and local government in the rural areas."

With financial aid from the United States now running $600 million a year, a U.S. spokesman was asked if there was any monetary limit on the new program.

He replied that no limit ever has been placed on American support for the Saigon government and that as much aid will be given as seems needed to do the job.

It appeared, however, that no substantial number of U.S. servicemen will be added to the 22,000 already on duty in Viet Nam.

Chairman Ties Star To Goldwater

No Shift For Or Against Burch Since GOP Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was no indication today of any strong shift for or against chairman Dean Burch in the ranks of the Republican National Committee since the GOP summit meeting.

And Burch himself tied his star to Sen. Barry Goldwater, saying if he is deposed it would be almost like reading Goldwater out of the GOP.

By far the majority of 132 committee members who replied to an Associated Press poll on whether they would give Burch a vote of confidence at Chicago Jan. 22-23 said they were undecided or keeping their own counsel.

In their meeting in New York Wednesday, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told Goldwater that his hand-picked GOP chairman would need a mandate, and not just a working majority, to remain at the head of the party's national organization.

Burch himself was reported today to be trying to learn through telephone talks just how many committee members he could count on in a showdown.

There were contradictory reports on how the count was running. One source said that as of now Burch had enough backing to win a vote of confidence. Another source said Burch did not, and definitely did not have enough to be considered a mandate.

Burch, a protege of the defeated GOP presidential candidate, expressed the opinion Thursday night that if he were forced to resign as party chairman "the implication would be that he (Goldwater) was no longer asked to support the party."

"Let's face it — the headline, if I were deposed in Chicago, would not be 'Dean Burch Deposed,' it would be 'Goldwater Rejected' by the Republican Party," and it's as simple as that."

Prison Gates To Open For Beck Today

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Two and a half years ago Dave Beck mangled a famed quotation and said, "Remember boys, as Gen. MacArthur said I'll be back." Today at 70 he comes back — back from the anonymity of prison life across the three miles of Puget Sound that have separated him from freedom since June 20, 1962.

The white launch that carried him away on a sunny summer day to nearby McNeil Island Federal Prison will return him in raw December to the same dock where he bade his farewell.

Beck, a self-made millionaire and once a power in the labor world as head of the Teamsters Union, was granted parole Dec. 1 after being turned down twice before.

Denials Filed By Trio Cited On Wounding

Pleas of innocent were filed Thursday in Steubenville Municipal Court by three Wellsville brothers charged with shooting with intent to kill, aftermath of a fracas earlier this week in a tavern in the Jefferson County seat.

Michael Thompson, 22, David (Frank) Thompson, 27, both of 1529 Main St., and Martin (Mickey) Thompson, 25, of 1421 Main St., were represented by Atty. Hyman Stern of Steubenville when they entered pleas at arraignment.

Sought in the shooting of Charles Brooks, 52, of Steubenville, the trio surrendered late Wednesday night.

Judge Lawrence Sedgwick told Atty. Stern that if one of the defendants would admit to handling the gun, he would agree to let the other two free on their own recognizance.

Detective Capt. Umberto Porcetta said in the Court hearing that according to his investigation so far, Brooks started the shooting and fired several shots into a table where the brothers were sitting before he was disarmed and shot with his own gun.

Michael Thompson posted $1,000 bond and the other two brothers were released on their own recognizance. They are slated for preliminary hearings Thursday in Steubenville.

Shot three times, Brooks is recuperating at the Ohio Valley Hospital.

Salem's New Ward Lineup Seen 'Invalid'

Brokaw's Opinion On 1960 Bill Cited By Election Board

A Salem ordinance realigning all four of the city's ward boundaries was certified to the County Election Board Thursday, but Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said the legislation is invalid under a ruling issued four years ago by Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw that knocked out a similar change.

Brokaw ruled in 1960 that a ward realignment ordinance was not proper because it was not passed within the three-month time limit prescribed by the Ohio Revised Code following proclamation of the decennial federal census figures for Ohio by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, O'Hanlon explained.

So the new ordinance is invalid for the same reason, as the prosecutor's original ruling still stands, O'Hanlon commented.

The legislation was enacted by Salem City Council Nov. 17, reducing the size of the First and Fourth Wards by transferring precincts to the Second and Third Wards.

Council said the action was necessary to attempt to equalize the population divisions in the four wards.

"The Election Board has decided to acknowledge receipt of the certified copy of the legislation," O'Hanlon said.

Sweeping Reorganization Plan

West Virginia May Trim State's Agencies To 22

CHARLESTON (AP) — A sweeping reorganization plan for West Virginia's state government is under consideration by high state officials, according to a Charleston newspaper.

The plan, which was reportedly prepared by a special study committee headed by Gov. W. W. Barron, calls for reducing the number of state agencies from 105 to 22.

This would be done in phases during the next several years by eliminating some departments and divisions and merging others.

A committee to study the reorganization of state government was proposed by the legislature two years ago. A Chicago firm, Public Administration Service, has served the study group as a consultant.

According to the newspaper story, the plan will be put in final shape by the study committee and then presented to the next legislature, which convenes Jan. 13.

Among those departments reportedly to be eliminated by the reorganization includes the Motor Vehicles Department, Commerce Department and the departments of public institutions, mines and veterans affairs.

Those agencies to be merged supposedly include mental health with the Health Department; the Turnpike Commission with the State Road Commission and the fire marshal with the Department of Public Safety.

A new Department of Revenue would replace all present revenue collecting agencies, except the liquor commission, which would remain unchanged.

Hurt In Pike Crash

SOMERSET, PA. (AP)—Rep. Charles Mosher of Ohio and his wife, Harriet, suffered minor injuries on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Thursday when their station wagon crashed against a medial barrier.

Mosher, of Oberlin, suffered a scratch above an eyebrow and a cut knee but did not need treatment. His 59-year-old wife was taken to Somerset Community Hospital for cuts and bruises. She was reported in fair condition awaiting x-rays.

State troopers said the station wagon, which the congressman was driving, struck a rock on the turnpike four miles west of Somerset. The impact sheered off the left front wheel and caused it to veer into the barrier.

No one else was in the car.

Temptation In Garden Of Education?

Three Men At The White House

By Victor Riesel

At about 10 p.m. on the night of Monday, Dec. 7, history brought two former school teachers and an ex-garment cutter together in the corridor just outside the state Dining Room of the White House.

The first while teachers now are powerful heads of state and the garment worker is symbolic of the strongest weave in their fabric of power.

The three men walking from the duckling dinner to the dance music of the gracious East Room were President Lyndon Johnson, Prime Minister (James) Harold Wilson, leader of the British Labor party and peppery David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, labor's representative among the men, and women, of state that evening.

THE CONVERSATION was animated, as it always is with Dubinsky. He had just left a British atomic scientist and was heading down the corridor when President Johnson spotted him and made a great point of bringing him together with the British Laborite prime minister.

Much to the amusement of the prime minister, who has a hair-breadth four-vote margin in Parliament, Mr. Johnson in mock anger chided the politically sophisticated Dubinsky for not delivering more vote to the Johnson-Humphrey ticket in New York. There the margin over Barry Goldwater had been 24 million, the greatest in history.

Dubinsky grinned with leprechaun glee. "The trouble with you, sir," he retorted, "is that you wanted to win by acclamation."

The three men laughed. But the by-play, padded in jest, is truly the motif of the future. No three men could be more different nor come from more disparate parts. But no three men could have more in common than the rugby captain from Cheshire, the rider of horses from Johnson City, and the traffic-dodging bicyclist from Lodz, Poland, who had run his first strike at 15 (against his father's bakery).

Except for the prime minister's public pledge to nationalization of some industries, the three men are politically, philosophically and sociologically in tune. In varying degrees their goals are the same. In common, their strength is that of the organized labor movement.

DAVE DUBINSKY was born to it. Harold Wilson achieved it. Lyndon Johnson had it thrust upon him. Now they are of one general goal, whether it is the British Labor party program or the Great Society.

As the three men walked towards the ballroom they reminisced of former great labor orators and mutual friends. They were an ambling vignette of things to come and of the significance of labor, here and across the world, which few do realize.

David Dubinsky is a realist. He is an intimate of the President's, but he well knew that he was there because he is the symbol of labor's influence growing far afield from the shop and the picket line.

He is the symbol of labor's movement onto the diplomatic field, where the impact is beginning to leave its design as it has on the industrial field.

FOR MONDAY NIGHT was the second time in a month that Mr. Dubinsky, as a spokesman for American labor, visited with a powerful head of state. On Nov. 12 he and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and two other federation vice presidents, James Safford, Retail Clerks and George Harrison, chief executive of the Railway Clerks, visited with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato of Japan in Tokyo.

The union men from the U.S. were the first labor leaders of any nationality ever to be received by a Japanese head of state. They were invited to come in. The Japanese labor men were not asked. The meeting was no mere formal handshaking gesture. Premier Sato talked with them for more than a half hour and the discussion ranged over international issues of solidarity and some labor matters which were of consequence to both nations.

On his way back to the U.S., Dubinsky spent some time in Hong Kong and visited the garment shops of a thousand needle workers and more which keep alive the city of refuge on the Cantonese coast of the Communist-controlled mainland. I do not know what his mission was, so I cannot talk of it.

MEANY FLEW directly back to the U.S., spent a week here and then flew out again to a Brussels conference of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, an organization of over 56 million in 105 lands. Many of the leaders of those unions are members of the governments of their lands.

Whether they are in the parliaments or cabinets, their labor strength gives them strong voices in the councils which make international as well as national policy.

This is what was symbolized by the three men gayly walking down the corridor, of the White House and of history.

This 'n That

"Badlands" are regions that have been worn into steep hills and deep gullies by the action of wind, rain and floods. The best known of the Badlands lie in southwestern South Dakota east of the Black Hills region, and in western Nebraska. Almost no plant life grows in these regions. Sand, gravel, layers of clay, limestone and sandstone make up the soil.

'The Great Society'

By David Lawrence

Some Thoughts From Years Ago

There is nothing new under the sun — not even the "great society," which has suddenly entered the political vocabulary in America.

Fifty years ago, Graham Wallas of the London School of Economics and Political Science wrote a book entitled The Great Society, which David Lawrence gave an analysis of the modern state.

Mr. Wallas was dedicated to the concept that the proper organization of the economic and social life in a country could create "happiness." He was a moderate rather than an extreme socialist. Although written five decades ago, his book deals with the very same trends and problems that are in existence today.

Mr. Wallas described himself as a "social psychologist," but in sponsoring the "great society" he did not say it was original with him or with his fellow intellectuals. He said that 50 years before, in 1864, "the practical men who were bringing the 'great society' into existence thought, when they had time to think at all, that they were thereby offering an enormously better existence to the whole human race."

THEY WERE convinced that, even if the "great society" should deprive people of some of the romance and intimacy of life, the increase of security would be far more than an equal return. Famine, it was assumed, would be impossible "when any laborer could buy flour and bacon from the world-market in his village shop," and that "wars would be few and short if they meant disaster to an international system of credit."

Mr. Wallas, however, gave his criticism as follows:

"Now, however, that the change has come, hardly any one thinks of it with the old undoubting enthusiasm. Actual famine has, it is true, disappeared from the 'great society,' but there remains the constant possibility of general and uncontrollable depressions of trade.

"The intervals between great wars apparently are becoming longer, but never has the expenditure on armaments been so great or the fear of war so constant.

"Wars, however, and commercial crises may be thought of as merely accidental interruptions to a social development which steadily advances in spite of them. The deeper anxiety of our time arises from a doubt, more or less clearly realized, whether that development is itself proceeding on right lines."

THE AUTHOR stressed the fact that village life, with its self-sufficiency and individual handicrafts, had given way to the monotony of large-scale production, and he saw few signs of "that harmony of the whole being which constitutes happiness."

He remarked that "even the parks and picture galleries and libraries and the other mitigations of the new environment" seemed to be tragically inadequate.

He wondered whether "the new system is creating sufficient cohesive force to ensure its own permanence."

But Mr. Wallas declared that the "great society" could not turn back. He did not think that the problems of the world would be solved "either by piling up armaments or by strengthening our police," and he expressed doubts whether "worldwide coercion" would ever be possible.

At the same time, he saw weaknesses in the structure of society, and particularly in individual human beings who, whether it be in trade unions or in corporations or in political offices, sacrificed the interest of others to further their own ambitions.

The author of the book agreed that certain causes of unhappiness had been removed, but noted that positive happiness had not been produced. He said:

"The 'great society' has resulted in a degree of discomfort and uncertainty which was unexpected by those who helped to make it. Its successes have rather been in the removal of certain specific causes of unhappiness than in the production of positive happiness. But those successes have not been unimportant... life is much longer than it was, and disease less terrible. Poverty no longer means the hunger... that made a man look like a lantern all his life after."

MR. WALLAS suggested that men should be given more variety in the handling of machines and some leeway for individual initiative, and urged team work. He proposed ways to give individuals some sense of responsibility in their work.

The author even advanced what some employers and unions are now promoting — long vacations. He suggested that these be on a half-year or quarter-year basis, and that the sabbatical idea be applied in occupations other than educational faculties.

Above all, he urged that a man be given the work that fits him. He said happiness is a social criterion instead of efficiency should be considered more often.

Although Mr. Wallas criticized the failure to achieve the "great society" which had been advocated more than 50 years before he wrote his book, he continued to raise doubts as to how "happiness" could be attained in the "great society."

It's a problem which President Johnson, too, may find difficult to resolve.

Johnson And The Bankers

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON LIVES TO be liked, particularly by the business community, some of whose biggest maharajas were in his corner in the last election.

As he put it last week: "Over the past 12 months I have said many times that it is my hope — and purpose — that government and business should operate in partnership, not as antagonists. That will always be my goal."

This is in keeping with his philosophy of "let's reason together."

President Kennedy felt the same way until he felt the captains in the steel industry got unreasonable. Then he banged heads and things never were the same again.

Now Johnson has banged heads with the bankers, but he wore a rubber cushion, and it worked.

But then Johnson wasn't in the same pickle as Kennedy. So even though everything ended well and pleasantly this time there's no telling how he'd act if the situations were the same. They just weren't.

The trouble Johnson ran into started in England where the interest rate was raised on money borrowed from the government to curb borrowing and, as a result, slow down the drain on British reserves.

Right away the American Federal Reserve raised the interest rate on loans it charges to U.S. commercial banks. There was some danger in this:

Would American commercial banks in turn raise the interest rate on loans to American business and industry? If so, this might mean less borrowing, less business expansion, and damage to this prosperous economy.

Sure enough, four banks raised their rate. It didn't require radar to see other bankers waiting in the wings to do the same. Right at the start of Johnson's new administration, the economy was in danger of a dive.

The President's problem was to get tough without doing it the way Kennedy got tough. Last week he talked to the Business Advisory Council, made up of more than 100 presidents and board chairmen of leading corporations.

He made a long speech on how he wished to get along with business, how good the economy is, how inflation could spoil the rosy glow, and how business and government should work together.

But right in the middle of it, and in just a few paragraphs, he took dead aim at the bankers. Although being very pleasant, he warned against the danger of upping lending rates. He said:

"I am confident that American bankers will consider the long-term interest of the nation in sustaining a healthy and vigorous rate of economic growth."

All this was intended to show he wasn't interfering with free enterprise, and he wasn't giving orders, but the bankers got the message. There was a little squawking, but not much. And no more banks raised rates.

The Drive For Industry Moves Ahead

The Community Improvement Corp. is leaving few stones unturned in its energetic campaign to attract new industries to East Liverpool and the immediate area.

The latest phase in the planning took shape Wednesday night when a drive for $50,000 was launched to provide working capital with which to help the cause in the highly-competitive nationwide field.

The kickoff pledges from civic-minded individuals and companies were encouraging and indicate that the goal will be attained, thus providing the CIC a formidable weapon with which to back up the natural resources and other advantages the area has to offer.

There can be no sitting back and relaxing if gains are to be made. Too many other communities are in the fight to stay. It's dog eat dog.

The CIC by its progressive planning has made it quite clear it wants to do its share of the "eating" industrial-wise and is ready to do all within its power to keep things moving ahead.

The campaign for $50,000 is another example of the many efforts under way that should erase any fears that still might exist that East Liverpool is not willing to meet its responsibilities as a progressive community.

It's Basketball Time

The East Liverpool High School basketball team will launch another season tonight as the round ball moves back into the sports picture locally.

Frank Chan will be serving as head coach for the first time, moving up from reserve mentor.

The pre-season "dope sheet" mentions inexperience as one of the obstacles with which Frank and the players must cope in their bid to make the campaign a winning one.

Experience, naturally, is as valuable an asset in sports as it is in any other field. Lack of experience can be overcome to some degree, however, by extra hustle and determination. It will be up to Frank and the boys to see to it that the desire to win remains at a high peak throughout the season.

We wish the team well as it plunges into another exciting and demanding campaign.

The Nursing Home Issue

Every Ohioan worrying about the high cost of hospital care has taken the first step toward understanding the issue about state regulation of nursing home care.

Nursing homes serve people who cannot afford to stay in hospitals—people who cannot afford the standard of care hospitals are required to meet.

These are the aged, the chronic care cases and patients undergoing prolonged periods of convalescence. They require varying degrees of nursing care. Many need only a place to stay.

This kind of care is not covered by hospitalization insurance. Nursing homes someday may be included in this kind of coverage. Nursing home care would be covered under the "Medicare" proposal debated in the 88th Congress. But at present, nursing home patients are not regarded as hospital patients.

Except for other benefits paid to some nursing home patients, the patients' care either be paid for by themselves or their families. It is of the utmost necessity that care should be available in a range of prices suited to the means of those who must pay for it.

This is the issue about state regulation—whether regulations to be enforced by the Ohio Health Department would price some nursing homes out of business by hoisting costs beyond the reach of their patients.

Those who have been fighting the proposed regulations on this ground have lost their court fight against enforcement of the regulations.

They are not fighting against physical security for their patients. They are fighting a skirmish in practical economics.

It is too bad the care of the aged, the chronically ill and the convalescent must be thought of in terms of dollars and cents, but that's how it is.

If state regulation prices some of Ohio's good nursing homes out of business, in the name of stricter state regulation, what will have been gained.

Men In Search Of Consensus

There have been times during public passages of the argument over the chairmen of the Republican National Committee when the counsel of a practical philosopher was needed.

The practical philosophers finally have gone to work, with the desired effect. Former President Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon, the GOP candidate in 1960, have met with Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and agreed on a tenable position on the retention of Dean Burch, Sen. Goldwater's personal choice to serve as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The Eisenhower-Nixon point of view, agreed to by Sen. Goldwater, is that the chairman of the national committee must have more than a mere majority of committee support to do his job.

Why Help Our Enemies?

The "bleeding heart" Communist countries and those who show an affinity for the hammer and sickle are putting on a sickening display of phony compassion for the Congo rebels who were prevented by the U.S. and Belgium from extending their savage butchery of hostage whites.

Red China has been known for some time to have been smuggling arms and military advisers to the Congo rebels, and there is evidence now that Russia has joined those who, by word or deed, revel in fomenting trouble for the beleaguered government of the new African republic.

But the thing that really grates is that

He needs the closest thing to a consensus that can be reached. If Mr. Burch can get it, he can be effective. If he cannot get it, he should resign.

His cue then would be to follow John E. Grenier, the committee's executive director for the Goldwater campaign, into retirement. Without the confidence of nearly all members of the national committee, no chairman can hope to do a job.

Thus, the question is whether Mr. Burch can command the confidence of the national committee. It will be answered when the committee meets next month. In the meantime, their work will be cut out for those who want him to stay. They will be looking for a consensus not in sight so far.

Algeria, Indonesia, Ghana and the United Arab Republic (Egypt), all big riders on the U.S. gravy train, are lending material or moral support to the rebel cause.

It was to be expected that sooner or later Castro would join the chant against his favorite verbal target — and sure enough he has. But the frenzy against the United States he has tried to work up among the Cuban faithful seemed to lack the ring of sincerity.

How America can continue to do business with the likes of these is beyond us.

Why do we continue to give artificial respiration to those who are trying to bury us?

A Standoff

Christmas is for nostalgia. Everything about it, if you're past 10, is associated with memory.

This is why people moon about old-fashioned Christmases, meaning the kind they remember. There's a trick in this. Memory screens out all the things better forgotten and saves only the things worth remembering.

If all of us could remember everything—the good and the bad—it would be a standoff.

While remembering the taste of Christmas goodies how about remembering Christmases spent in various stages of the illnesses that used to lay people low at the time of the Winter Solstice — before modern medical practice shortened the term of infectious disease.

When drooling over recollections of holiday feasting, how about wincing at the recollection of kitchen drudges doing everything but hunt down meat with a bow and arrow before they put a meal on the table?

While feeling wide-eyed about the wonder of it all in the good old days, give a thought to the fact Christmas was an austere occasion for most people as recently as a generation ago and two generations ago it was a record-setting blastoff if a kid got an orange in the toe of a faded stocking.

By Truman Twill

Before drooling a puddle over the way food used to taste, dwell on the little-discussed fact that there were a lot of lousy cooks around at the time and a lot of picking and choosing between the edible and the inedible.

Admit that the stuff which used to glitter under Christmas trees would look crude in comparison with today's loot.

Confess that the flickering candles they used to put on trees were as dangerous as building a fire on the living room floor and nobody breathed easy until they were blown out.

Face up to it that wood burning stoves were no match for today's automated equipment; that houses used to be uncomfortably cold in winter; that traveling in unheated conveyances was a privation; that cutting wood was a rough job.

If there's one thing no one should bother to fashion it's an old-fashioned Christmas. The only thing worth feeling tender about is the fact the old-fashioned kind happened when all of us who passed the age of 10 long ago were so very much younger than we are now.

Only for youth would any old-timer want to turn back the clock to an old-fashioned Christmas. The rest of it is better forgotten.

Midland Tax Renewed For Another Year

Midland's 10 - mill wage tax has been renewed for another year.

Borough Council Thursday night adopted an ordinance to continue the current revenue source.

It applies to all persons employed in Midland plants, including those who reside elsewhere.

Continuing a long fight against air pollution, Council adopted a resolution asking federal legislation for tax relief for equipment and facilities that industries install to prevent air contamination.

Mrs. C. K. O'Hara, borough secretary, is instructed to direct the resolution to Sen. Joseph Clark and Sen. Hugh Scott and Rep. Frank M. Clark.

Council on Nov. 25 adopted a resolution in concert with Beaver County and 11 other subdivisions asking the Pennsylvania Air Pollution Control Commission for regulations to control or abate smoke and dust. The commission said a week ago regulations are being considered, along with a tax writeoff for co-operating industries.

Council also instructed Mrs. O'Hara to ask the State Highway Department in Harrisburg for permission to erect a traffic light on Midland Ave. at 8th St. Permission must be obtained because Midland Ave. is also a state highway.

Mrs. Patricia Balzer of 13 8th St. asked Council, on behalf of a group of residents, to have a light erected at the busy intersection, citing the dangers to pedestrians and school children during the rush-hour traffic at change of shifts at Crucible Steel.

Councilman Lester Trainer, chairman of the traffic committee, said Council had discussed the congestion at the intersection in a caucus session and had decided to request erection of a light.

Mrs. Balzer offered to have residents in the area also write to the department, if it would be of any help in obtaining the signal.

The assemblymen representing the area, and the state senator for the district, will be asked to assist in expediting the request.

Motorists were asked to observe the posted signs against blocking the intersections and crosswalks.

If the light is approved, it will be used only during rush periods when congestion is at its peak, Trainer said.

Bills were ordered paid and officers' reports were accepted.

The next regular meeting of Council will be Jan. 14, as the second session scheduled for December was canceled since it falls on Christmas Eve.

William Vinovich, president, presided.

Marine In Training

LISBON — Pvt. Larry G. Lutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lutz, 225 E. High St., is scheduled to report to Camp Lejeune, N. C., for combat infantry training after completing courses at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in Parris Island, S. C.

lation and advise Salem officials that in our opinion we still are bound by the prosecutor's opinion on the previous legislation," O'Hanlon said.

He emphasized that Council has a legal right to change ward boundaries, but only if the action is taken within the time limit prescribed by law. "Consequently, we will continue to accept declarations of candidacy from aspirants for ward Council seats at Salem on the basis of the boundary lines previously established," O'Hanlon said.

"Two already have filed for ward Council posts. We have accepted the declarations of candidacy and mailed them receipts. Unless there is a mandamus or some other court action that changes the situation, their names will go on the ballot."

Two Democratic incumbents affected directly by the changes have filed for new terms. Harold J. Asty entered for re-election in the Third Ward and Albert Lesch filed for a new term in the First Ward.

The realigned boundaries put both Asty and Lesch in the so-called Southwest Ward. That would have forced them to run against each other in the primaries in May if one of them did not pull out to run for an at-large seat.

The ordinance was enacted by Council Nov. 17, with Asty and Lesch dissenting. Subsequently, it was vetoed by Mayor Dean Cranmer, a Democrat. But Council then passed the ordinance over the mayor's veto in early December.

O'Hanlon said it appears that the effective date of the ordinance now would be about Jan. 1, following the action to override the veto.

"We will proceed under the previous opinion of the prosecuting attorney — our legal adviser — that the ordinance is invalid because it was not adopted under the time limit prescribed in the Ohio Revised Code," O'Hanlon said.

At the time the legislation was enacted, Salem councilmen said disparities in the ward alignments were shown in the general election, which saw more votes cast in the Fourth Ward than in the other three combined.

The Fourth cast 2,029 votes, while the First had 1,066; the Second, 543, and the Third, 409. Observers said the new law makes both the Northwest and Northeast Wards solid Republican, the Southwest solidly Democrat and leaves the Southeast as a "swing" ward that could go to either party.

At the time the ordinance was approved, Salem Solicitor Thomas Coe told the councilmen they have the right, under the home rule statute, to "realign the wards at any time."

A Common Pleas Court jury in Lisbon late Thursday returned a verdict favoring Oley J. Evans of Echo Dr., Wellsville, defendant, in a $20,000 action filed by Leroy C. Wise, 2044

Michigan Ave., as a result of an alleged traffic accident Jan. 1, 1962 in Midland.

The jury deliberated less than an hour before all 12 signed the verdict for the defendant. The trial began Wednesday afternoon, with Judge Joel H. Sharp presiding.

Officials Let Contract For 2 City Trucks

Mayor Merrill D. Hall and Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey today awarded an $8,240 contract to Wimmer Motor Sales to furnish two 1965 model GMC trucks with four-wheel drive, snow plows and ash spreaders to reinforce the city's snow - removal equipment.

The concern has promised delivery in 30 days, Vodrey said. The two officials comprise the Board of Control, which opened bids from four concerns Monday noon.

Wimmer offered the two GMC's at $4,120 each. They will be equipped with 6-cylinder, 305-cubic-inch engines and the plow and ash spreader specified by the city, Wimmer said in his bid.

The low offer of $7,999 for the two vehicles was submitted by Bob White Ford, Inc., of Wellsville, but the board said its bid did not meet city specifications on a couple of points.

The other offers were filed by: Mike Turk, Inc., two 1965 Chevrolets for $8,600, and O. S. Hill & Co., two International trucks for $4,445.

Vodrey said the four - wheel drive vehicles will be particularly useful for snow removal on narrow or steep streets, especially in residential areas.

The snow plows are electrically operated from inside the cab. The driver may raise or lower the blade or change its angle.

Council appropriated $10,000 out of income tax revenue at its meeting Nov. 16 to cover the cost of the new street department vehicles.

County Planning Unit Will Elect

Election of officers was set Jan. 14 when the Columbiana County Regional Planning Commission met Thursday night in the county commissioners office at Lisbon.

A nominating committee was appointed consisting of George Bloomgren of East Liverpool, Olan Sanor of East Rochester, and Allen Dalrymple of Wellsville. Amendments to the by-laws will also be up for action.

At an executive committee session preceding the commission meeting, bills were approved for payment, the 1965 budget was discussed and the committee setup for next year was considered. The executive committee will meet again on Jan. 7.

Eber L. Wright of Ashtabula County, adviser to the Columbiana County group, said the work being done by the various committees of residents is saving the county thousands of dollars in collecting basic data for the commission's work.

Pickets At Loblaw's Warehouses Removed

YOUNGSTOWN — Teamster Local 377 has removed pickets from Loblaw's Inc. warehouses here after reaching an understanding in a three-way dispute involving Loblaw's and a trucking firm.

Union leaders said only minor details remained to be worked out after an 11-hour conference in Chicago with representatives of Loblaw's and the J. V. McNicholas Transfer Co.

Terms of the agreement were not disclosed, although union sources said none of the 40 or 50 Loblaw truckers involved would lose their jobs. The union struck Saturday night when Loblaw's turned over to McNicholas the trucking work that had been handled by its own truckers.

Pleas Judge Drops Charge In Attack Case

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — Rape charges against Victor Sallee, 25, of Ashtabula, were dismissed Thursday by Common Pleas Judge Roland Pontius on the recommendation of Robert Webb, Ashtabula County prosecutor. Two juries failed to reach a verdict in the case against Sallee and Webb said circumstances did not indicate a third trial would be successful.

Sallee a former boxer from Sandusky, was charged with raping a 15-year-old Ashtabula girl at knifepoint last February. He was indicted by the September grand jury.

State Delays Start On New Flood Gauge

The State Highway Department will be unable to start work until spring on its phase of a project for installation of a river gauge on a pier of the East Liverpool - Chester Bridge. Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey was advised today.

William A. Miller, operations engineer at the Division 11 office in New Philadelphia, told Vodrey in a letter that his crews are all busy on snow and ice-control work and the river gauge project must be delayed until early next spring.

The Highway Department was scheduled to erect an angle iron support and a heavy plank on the pier. Then the Pittsburgh Corps of Engineers Office was to furnish enameled numerals to be affixed to the plank as a way of indicating the river's height.

Vodrey said he will advise the Engineers' Office of the delay stipulated by the state. Negotiations for the project have been under way at least a year. Vodrey said he has been in contact at least once a month with either the Highway Department or the engineer's office on the job.

East Liverpool has been without a reliable indicator of the river's height during floods since the razing of former Dam 8 near Newell when the Stratton "super-dam" was put into service.

Shortly afterward, the movement started for erection of a new gauge on the bridge pier. It is scheduled to be placed on the downstream side of the pier nearest the Ohio shore so that it will be visible from a point at Broadway and River Rd.

Vodrey said a second gauge probably will be installed along the River Rd. in the vicinity of the YELP, Inc. terminal. It will be used if the river ever equals the record height of the 1936 flood, covering the gauge on the pier, he said.

The Highway Department was asked to erect the angle iron support and the plank for the gauge because the state-owned bridge is under its jurisdiction. Miller's letter said in part:

"Since our crews are all involved in snow and ice control and related duties, it now appears that the work on the bridge will be deferred until early spring."

The Boy Scout movement was originated by Lord Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden - Powell, whose experiences as a soldier in the British Army convinced him that British boys needed more physical training and experience in outdoor life. He founded the Boy Scouts in 1907.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

The Prince and the Turtle and the Snowman arrive in Santa Land to find that Santa has gone to Fairyland. Tweedleknives grumpily agrees to get them there in time for the Music Festival.

CHAPTER SEVEN

For two hours George and the Prince and the Snowman wandered through the workshops of Santa Land.

They had never dreamed of such a wonderland and the little elves who were Santa's helpers had never dreamed of such visitors.

"Are you really real?" they asked the Snowman, pinching off a piece of his arm.

"Ouch! Of course I'm real. But I shan't be long if you keep that up."

"BUT YOU'RE not finished!" exclaimed the elves and they put a tall silk hat on top of the Snowman's head. "And a broom! He needs a broom!" They stuck a brand new broom under his arm. "He's one-eyed. Give him another eye!"

Out came the jewels and an emerald became the missing eye. The Snowman looked at himself in the mirror. He was the handsomest, best - dressed Snowman ever made.

Meanwhile, George played games with a Jack-in-the-Box whose head popped in and out of its house even faster than George's did.

Prince Chad rushed about examining bicycles, pogo sticks, toy trains, fire engines, games and spinning tops. He planned to fill the Kingdom of Razeptie with just such things when he became king.

The two hours sped by and too soon it was time to meet Patrick Tweedleknives at workshop number six.

The old fellow was cross as ever, but he handed them each a pair of shoes and it was plain to see he was pleased with the job he had done. There were two giant shoes for the Snow-

He was the handsomest, best-dressed Snowman ever made.

man, four tiny shoes for George and two regular-size for the Prince.

"THEY ARE the only ones of their kind in the world," said Tweedleknives. "They will take you to Fairyland but not bring you back. Put them on when you come to the forest that lies on the east of Santa Land. They will carry you faster than your thoughts and you will be in Fairyland in time for breakfast."

The three travelers tried to thank him but he waved them off grumpily and stomped back to Santa's house to finish his sleep.

"He is a good fellow," said George. "I wish I could have sung for him. But I do not think he is a music lover."

"He would be if he heard you," said the Snowman loyally.

"Perhaps he will," said the Prince. "If George should win the Music Festival."

"Ah, yes," said George longingly. "Let us hurry!"

They went off as fast as the Turtle's short legs would permit to the forest on the east side of Santa Land.

BEHIND THEM, where no one could see, came Womp, the man witch. All this time Womp had been fidgeting and biting his nails as he waited impatiently to catch the Prince alone.

Womp had promised King Kerchew of Razeptie that he would see to it that the Prince would not return from his trip to Santa Land. If he did not come back he could not be crowned King on Christmas Day and wicked Kerchew (who was only acting kind) could go on being king forever.

But Womp had followed the Prince all the way to Santa Land and never had a chance to be alone with him. Now time was running short and Womp was very worried. Christmas Eve was tomorrow and after that came Christmas and it would be too late to stop the Prince.

But soon, very soon, Womp would get his chance.

Crash Hurts 3 On Route 7 Near Rogers

Two Rogers area youths and a Mahoning County woman were injured in a collision on Route 7 south of Rogers Thursday night, one of two area mishaps yesterday.

Cars driven by William Crawford, 18, of Rogers R.D. 1 and Thelma Thomas, 35, of New Springfield collided at 7:10 p.m. about a mile south of Rogers.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the woman was headed south in a 1962 sedan and was passing another vehicle when she saw traffic approaching.

She tried to cut back into the southbound lane but lost control and skidded sideways into the oncoming 1952 sedan operated by Crawford.

The two drivers along with Ronald Rhom, 16, of Rogers R.D. 1, passenger in Crawford's car, were taken to Salem City Hospital.

The woman suffered a cut of the wrist and concussion, and Rhom received a cut forehead and concussion. They were in "fair" condition. Crawford was released after treatment for body bruises.

The crash still is under investigation.

William Crabtree, 55, of R.D. 3 was cited for speeding after his 1964 coach veered off Park Way Ext. and struck a utility pole and embankment at 10:10 p.m.

Officers said Crabtree, headed south, lost control and the auto went off the left side of the road, hit the pole, then went back across the road and hit the embankment. Damage to the car was estimated at $350.

LISBON — The annual Christmas fund for Columbiana County foster-home children went over the top Thursday, according to Robert Bycroft, welfare department director.

This year's appeal was for $1,600 for approximately 160 children on the welfare rolls and this amount was reached yesterday. Any funds over this will be used to provide clothing, pictures, class rings and other necessities for high school graduation in June.

Bycroft expressed thanks to donors and extended holiday greetings on behalf of the children, the department, staff and himself.

Decision May Be Next Week On Effort To Unseat Halleck

WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision on whether insurgent House Republicans will try to unseat Charles A. Halleck of Indiana may be made after a conference here next Wednesday.

No formal action could be taken until the first formal Republican conference of the new session on Jan. 4.

Opponents of Halleck include those who think the House GOP leadership should more actively push alternative programs instead of merely opposing Democratic proposals. They are considering Michigan Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. for the top post.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., has been notified of the caucus of House Democrats next Jan. 2.

Williams' status as a Democrat is under fire by some of his colleagues because he supported GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Members of the Democratic study group — generally Northern members of the House — have served notice they will seek to deny Williams a seat as a Democrat, a move which would have the effect of taking away his party status and depriving him of his committee assignments.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government stockpiles declined nearly $125 million in November, according to a report issued Thursday, leaving the total at just under $14 billion.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., issued the report, which showed the amount of stockpile had declined by $124,670,259 to a total of $13,999,323,321.

About $36 million of the decrease was in defense stockpiles, valued at $8,471 billion on Nov. 1. Most of the decrease was due to multimillion-dollar disposals of surplus rubber, zinc and tin.

Attorney Seeks Court Action On Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus attorney, Kathleen K. Haase, says the Ohio Supreme Court should hear an action seeking to overturn the 3rd District congressional election of Nov. 3, in which Democrat Rodney M. Love defeated incumbent Republican Paul F. Schenck.

Mrs. Haase represents 25 contesters who claim that Love's name appeared above Schenck's on ballots in Butler County and that the election result would have been different if names had been rotated as required.

Erie County Clerk Heads Ohio's Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Auble, clerk of courts of Erie County, has been elected president of the Ohio Clerk of Courts Association.

Others named Thursday, all clerks of their respective counties, were: Harry Smock, Muskingum, first vice president; Joseph Clifford, Franklin, third vice president; Emil Masgay, Cuyahoga, second; Jeanne Williamson, Sandusky, secretary, and Velma Sauvey, Ottawa, treasurer.

Cleveland Firm Will Expand At $25 Million Cost

CLEVELAND (AP) — Plans for new and expanded facilities at a cost of $25 million next year have been announced by the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

The company said Thursday the expenditures will be included in a stepped up expansion program due in part to the effects of reduced federal income tax rates. Similar expenditures this year will total $20 million, it added.

CEI estimated its investments for expansion and improvements will total more than $155 million in the next five years, an increase of $30 million over original estimates a year ago.

Ralph M. Besse, CEI president, said the increases in the construction program "are many times greater than the dollar amount represented by the lowered income tax rates and reflect what Congress expected to achieve when the law was passed."

The city of Cleveland has asked that the utility reduce its rates sharply because of the tax cut it received. Negotiations between the company and the city on a new contract, including rates, have been recessed temporarily.

Film To Be Screened For Dahlia Society

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I've been working in a law office for more than 10 years and I still can't figure something out. Why do the women who come in for a divorce turn the world upside down to shield their children from the fact that their father is a cheating, lying skunk?

When it's the wife who has strayed (usually out of frustration and loneliness) why does the husband come charging in like an enraged bull — dragging the children with him — making sure they hear every sordid detail of their mother's unfaithfulness? No adjective is too strong, no accusation too indelicate for their ears.

It happened again this morning, and I'm just sick. I know the woman involved and she is really a fine person. Will you kindly explain why men do this inhuman thing? — W.W.W.

Dear W.W.W.: Most courts award the children to the mother unless the father can prove she is "unfit." In order to prove a mother "unfit" the evidence must be plenty strong.

This by no means justifies tearing a woman's reputation to shreds in the presence of her children but it does explain why fathers sometimes do it.

Holiday Guest

Dear Ann: I attend a fine school in the East. All the girls here come from homes richer than mine. My folks went all out to buy me an outstanding wardrobe. To look at me you'd never guess we were middle-class people.

My roommate is a very refined girl from a well-to-do and prominent Pennsylvania family. I have invited her to come home with me for the holidays. It so happens my parents have atrocious manners. In fact, they behave like disgusting barbarians at the table. I didn't realize the dimensions of their slobbishness until I went away to school.

I've been saving my allowance and could afford to take my roommate out to dinner every night of the week. This would save me a lot of embarrassment. Do you think it will work? — TRYING TO GET AHEAD.

Dear Trying To Get Ahead: Eat at home and make no apologies. Far worse than poor table manners is a child who is ashamed of her parents.

Jilted Jane

Dear Ann: Add me to the list of people who never thought I'd end up writing to Ann Landers. Here I am, ready to lie down on your couch, and nobody is more surprised than I.

I went with this man for three years. And when I say "went with," I mean I devoted myself to him, body and soul. He was never out of my thoughts. I invested part of my inheritance in his business, which failed. When he was down on his luck I let him move into my apartment and I moved in with my aunt for three months.

Last January he went into a nutty business that clicked. Instead of giving back my $5,000, he bought himself a new car. Last night he gave me the BIG news. He has decided he's not good enough for me and I should find someone who is. His last words were, "Baby you deserve the best and I hope you get it."

I hear he is seeing a wealthy widow who is old enough to be his mother. Should I invest in a private eye and throw the book at him? — CRUSHED.

Dear Crushed: What book? Dun & Bradstreet? It's the only book that would interest the jerk.

If he marries that rich widow for her money he'll earn every dime of it. It's the hardest work there is.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Flock Of Ducks Seen On Lake At Tomlinson Park

Large flocks of ducks, great blue herons and several killdeer are among migratory wildlife spotted recently in Hancock County by Oliver Johnson, county agricultural agent.

An avid birdwatcher, Johnson reported he counted 48 ducks one morning at the lake in Tomlinson Run State Park near Pughtown, spotted the herons over the Ohio River, and observed a flight of noisy killdeer at Gas Valley near Pughtown.

"Ducks in sizable numbers are feeding and resting at the lake at Tomlinson Run Park. I saw only one male mallard in the flock of 48, and the others appeared to be female mallards and black ducks."

Johnson said the mallard is very colorful, with a green head, narrow white ring around the neck, reddish brown breast and a white tail. N. T. Holbrook, park superintendent, expects the ducks will stay around until the water freezes.

Johnson spotted the herons circling the Ohio River south of New Cumberland. "They certainly have over-stayed this year," he observed. He pointed out the herons stand about 4 feet tall. The bird flies with its neck folded back and is a wader.

The killdeer are plovers, 9-to-11 inches long, marked with two black breast bands.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: For those women who enjoy having beautiful lingerie, and care for it with TLC, I have a suggestion for hemlines on nylon slips that creep up after washing . . . I iron my lingerie with a warm iron and spray a small amount of spray starch along the hemline. This does not discolor the lingerie but keeps it down . . . evenly at the hem.

DAHNA SCHAUBLIN.

It works! And is great for those crawling slips. And TLC means "tender-loving-care" for ANYTHING and EVERYONE! Use it the mostess. Always.

DEAR THRIFTIES: DON'T throw away that leftover piece of toast after breakfast. Save it.

Either put it in your freezer or back in your oven with the pilot light still on and let it get real dried out and crisp. . . .

Next time you make a lettuce salad, put the piece of toast on your cutting board and cut it in small cubes. Just before you sit down to eat, add the cubes on top of your lettuce salad. Great. Makes the salad go farther and gives it a completely different taste with BODY.

Another thing I learned was to sprinkle the toast with Parmesan cheese or a little garlic salt before baking it. Great lakes . . . what a dish for nothing!

Variety is the spice of life, eh? Specially when it costs not too much extra (either in effort or money)? Ha! Got 'cha there.

Always toss the salad before sprinkling the toast tidbits on top.

You want them to stay crisp and on top so you can get a crunchy bite!

HELOISE.

P.S.: And isn't this a nice way to save a piece of toast? And remember that usually it already has the butter on it!

DEAR HELOISE: I put my baby in his infant seat and place it in the car, sideways, facing me, and can then put the seat belt around it.

Now, I can travel in safety with baby. . . .

MARTY SHARP. DEAR HELOISE: When we move, I put objects that screw on the wall, such as paper towel racks, can openers, glass shelves, etc., into plastic bags with the screws which hold them in place. This is quicker than taping the screws and attachments to the object, and one is less likely to lose parts of same.

In our new residence, we simply put up the wall pieces bag-by-bag!

DALE B. SIMPSON.

DEAR HELOISE: I haven't much time in the mornings and we like scrambled egg. . . .

I rinse a clean jar in cold water, break the eggs into it and add the salt and pepper and a little milk if desired, then put the lid on the jar and shake it thoroughly.

No messy beater to clean and I rinse the jar out with cold water so it is easy to wash.

ANNA H.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who hate shelf paper or drawer lining that wrinkles up, simply cut a piece of cardboard the size of the drawer and tuck the outside edges of the paper under it.

Works beautifully in stove drawers.

JUDY RANFTL.

DEAR HELOISE: To pick up those elusive splinters of broken glass . . . wrap cellophane tape (sticky side out) around your fingers and pick up those little slivers of glass with the "stickum."

MAUREEN.

Firestone Plans To Buy Division Of Seiberling Co.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. will buy the Tire Division of the Seiberling Rubber Co. for an undisclosed amount of cash if the federal government approves the transaction.

The Seiberling board of directors approved the sale Thursday and also adopted the broad outline of a program to be pursued by the company if the sale is completed.

A Justice Department spokesman said in Washington that the Federal Trade Commission is studying the proposed sales and that the department's anti-trust division has asked to take a look at it before the FTC rules. There was no comment from the FTC.

A joint announcement by E. B. Hathaway, president of Firestone, and H. P. Schrank, Seiberling president, said a contract for sale had been approved.

Hathaway said if the sale is approved by the Justice Department, the Seiberling Tire Division will become a subsidiary of Firestone and operate as a separate and distinct corporation. He said the present Seiberling facilities in Barberton will be modernized and Firestone will "aggressively promote the Seiberling tire products through Seiberling distributors."

Patrol Reviews Yule Gift Policies

"All we want for Christmas is safety on our highways," Sgt. Ralph Rizzo of the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said today in reviewing patrol policy on accepting Christmas gifts from well-meaning individuals and agencies.

The sergeant indicated that he and his men will strictly observe regulations which prohibit state employees from accepting gifts in any form, from individuals or firms doing business with the state. He requested all such persons and agencies to take note of these prohibitions.

"We appreciate the thought behind many of these well intentioned material gifts offered our men during this season of the year."

Sgt. Rizzo said, "The greatest gift you can give our men, your family, your friends and our community is a safe Christmas and New Year's holiday season."

1 Killed, 2 Injured In Traffic Collision

PIQUA, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Alma F. Penny, 72, of Bradford was killed in a traffic collision at the U.S. 36-Ohio 721 intersection near the Miami-Darke County line.

Her husband, Oren 72, and the other driver, Allen Gibson of Greenville, were injured.

Cleveland Hotel, Apartment Site Are Hit By Fire

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fire swept the three-story Stadium Hotel in the downtown section early today and caused some damage to the Regency House, a 14-story apartment building next door, before it was brought under control.

Only two persons were reported injured. Both residents of the Regency House, were treated at St. Vincent Charity Hospital for smoke inhalation.

Cleveland Fire Chief William E. Barry said he was pretty sure all of the 70 persons living at the Stadium got out safely. He said many of the persons living at the hotel and apartment house were elderly. The fire started in the Stadium Hotel, Chief Barry said.

The five - alarm blaze also damaged several stores on the ground floor of the building housing the Stadium Hotel, on East Ninth Street between Superior Avenue and Rockwell.

From 150 to 200 residents of the Regency House fled into the street, but fire officials said many would be able to go back to their suites this morning. Many fled in their nightclothes.

The Regency House, which underwent a $12 million renovation completed last August, formerly was the Olmsted Hotel.

One big reason for today's enormous traffic jams is the fact that during the last 10 years auto registrations have risen 48 per cent, while road mileage has increased only about 20 per cent.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parents Apt To Believe They Fail

As I said earlier in this column, I receive a goodly number of letters from mothers who run themselves down as parents. They express great grief over what poor parents they think they have been and yet their very own letters may reveal many precious merits. Dr. Garry Myers traits as parents. My guess is that many of them will be long remembered with endearment by their children. Always I write these parents, entreating them to quit scolding and belittling themselves as parents.

Sometimes I think that we who write to advise parents are partly responsible for their severe self - condemnation. In their places, you and I might not be nearly as good parents as they are.

This problem came to my mind and heart when I was writing my first book for parents, (Ups) The Modern Parent (1930) no longer in print.

IN THAT book I wrote: "If any parent, upon reading anything I write, feels unduly depressed, I beg of him or her to avoid it. I have tried to leave the impression that, in the last analysis, all of us are problem parents and that bad things which parents do in relation to their children are done unconsciously, are prompted by human frailties; that nearly all these bad things will be done to some degree, at least, and at some time by practically all parents; and that we parents by taking thought and by constant effort can reduce our frailties, but that we can hardly hope to overcome them absolutely.

"It may be of some comfort to a fellow parent who thinks himself at times unworthy to be a parent, to know that the writer gets tremendously depressed at times concerning his own shortcomings in this respect. He, too, finds himself looking back upon his failures when he should be looking forward.

"Every now and then a mother in my classes at Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, volunteers the confession after attending several weeks that she really has been much relieved to discover that so many other parents have problems not unlike her own. If, then, you feel you have not been a successful parent, cheer up; you have lots of company. The chances are that you have been more successful than you think you have.

"IT MAY do us good to wallow in the slough of despair at times. But if we stay there long we are in danger and we are dangerous to our children. When we find ourselves depressed about our parental duties over several days or even several hours at a time, we need to discipline ourselves; we need to pull ourselves together and turn our faces toward the future, and not to look back for a long, long while.

"If we have a sane and practical philosophy, we just will not let ourselves dwell upon our failures of yesterday and of last year. We shall begin to think upon the good things we have done; we shall celebrate our own successes and look hopefully ahead. 'Count your blessings, count them every one,' is a pretty good song to sing, to hum quietly to yourselves or to shout in your imagination at these trying moments."

My bulletins, "A Parent's Prayer" and "Celebrate Your Child's Successes" may be secured by sending a self - addressed, U. S. stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Pirates Introduce Staff . . .

The Pittsburgh Pirates introduced their new manager Harry (minus the hat) Walker and his coaching team to the press earlier this week.

While the scribes fired questions at General Manager Joe Brown and his staff, Johnny Pesky, a new member of the coaching staff, drew most of the laughs when he answered queries about Dick Stuart.

Pesky, former Boston manager, said "Stuart was a 4-Her — homers, humor, humility and headaches."

Pesky admitted Stuart's greatness as a hitter, but said "he must have had his glove made in a cement factory."

Recalled was the game in which Stuart gently fielded an easy ground ball and stepped on first for the third out to end the game.

He drew a standing ovation from the Fenway Park crowd. Later in the locker room, Pesky commented: "They liked your fielding on that play Stu." Stuart replied, "That was nothing, I received better applause one time in Pittsburgh for fielding a hot dog wrapper."

Rounding out the Pirate staff is Alex Grammas, who will work with the infielders; Clyde King, pitching coach, and Hal Smith, a former Cardinal and not the same Hal Smith who hit a home run in the seventh game of the 1960 World Series.

Need Catcher, Centerfielder . . .

BROWN feels the toughest spots to fill in 1965 will be centerfield and obtaining a second-string catcher to back up Jim Pagliaroni.

However, the Pirates did make a trade Wednesday, obtaining Andre Rodgers, regular Chicago Cub shortstop, for cash and a minor league player.

WHEN WALKER'S turn came, the former Cardinal great emphasized running and bunting as two key factors in the game.

He felt bunting was the most neglected part of baseball and said the Bucs would spend considerable time this spring on that phase of the game.

Asked what will happen if Brown can't help the club by making trades, Walker said, "We will take what we have and drive it as hard as we can. If we find we're driving too hard, we'll just have to back off."

BOB FRIEND, the Bucs pitching ace, attended the luncheon and reported his weight was the same now as when the 1964 season ended.

BIG BOB Veale was sounded out as to the toughest hitters in the National League. Veale pointed to Ron Santo of the Cubs and, of course, the all-time great Willie Mays.

"The toughest hitters are the Nellie Fox type, the ones that spray hits on you," he added.

ONE QUESTION sent to Brown read, "Do you expect Dick Groat to return to Pittsburgh?" Brown answered, "I thought he was already here." Groat resides in Pittsburgh during the winter.

Unitas Is Choice For MVP In NFL

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I couldn't accept the honor without accepting it for the whole club," said quarterback John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts upon being informed he had been voted Most-Valuable Player in the National Football League.

"Without the 39 other guys, you're nothing."

Unitas' reaction to his election by an Associated Press panel, announced Thursday, was as laconic as his steady performance on the field.

"It's nice," he said, "but it never concerned me one way or the other. I like to get it, but I didn't worry about it. If it's going to come, it's going to come."

Unitas received 32 votes out of a possible 42 by three selections in each league city. Jim Brown of Cleveland got five, Lenny Moore of the Colts two and Johnny Morris of Chicago one. There were two abstentions.

Unitas twice led the Colts to NFL titles in the past and set records with his spectacular passing. But this season, in which they wrapped up the Western Conference title on Nov. 22, brought out the quarterback in him.

His number of passes will be the third lowest in his nine seasons. But Unitas has drawn as much praise if not more for his masterful direction of the most-potent offense in the league.

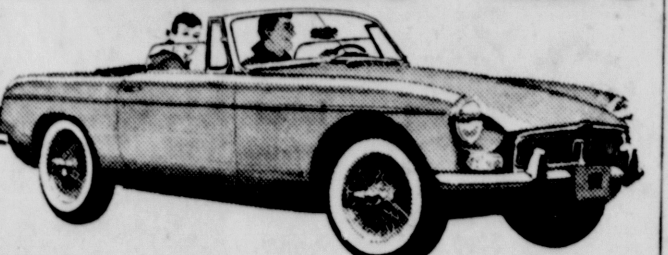

"We tried to control the ball," explained Unitas, "by running and passing. One helps the other."

"There's no sense throwing 95 per cent of the time when you got the runners. If one bogs down, the other picks it up."

Statistics prove the point. Last season Unitas threw 20 touchdown passes and the Colts scored 11 by rushing. With a final game to go against Washington Sunday, the 1964 Colts have tallied 17 times on passes by Unitas and 27 rushing.

The difference has been healthier, rampaging Lenny Moore, who has run for 15 touchdowns.

Cards Favored To Trip Eagles

Scribe Picks Giants Over Browns In NFL Surprise

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Throw the figures out the window this week. The whole season hangs in the balance for the Cleveland Browns in Saturday's game with the injury-riddled, last-place New York Giants.

If the Browns win they go on to a title game with the Baltimore Colts Dec. 27 at Cleveland. If they lose, the St. Louis Cardinals can wrap up the championship date with the Colts for St. Louis by beating Philadelphia Sunday afternoon.

The Browns-Giants game is knee deep in dramatic possibilities. Y.A. Tittle, probably closing out his brilliant career, has been named to start at quarterback. The Giants can be counted upon for an all-out effort as a going-away present for the old Bald Eagle, although they have only 29 reasonably able-bodied citizens from their original squad of 40 men.

The records show that Cleveland beat New York 42-20 at Cleveland Oct. 25.

A five-five record last week left the season record at 84-48-8, 54-32-5 in the National League and 30-16-3 in the American League. Let's take another shot: (All games Sunday afternoon unless otherwise noted)

NFL
Saturday afternoon
New York 21, Cleveland 20

Giants go on an emotional binge for Y.A. and salvage one prize from a disastrous season. Probably last game for Tittle, Alex Webster and Andy Robustelli. But if Browns blitz Tittle early they could break it wide open for Giants are a thin, thin line.

St. Louis 27, Philadelphia 17
— A few reservations here. If Browns in Saturday, the Cards may be in no mood to put out Sunday. But with the title on the line the Cards' air arm of Charley Johnson is too much for Eagle defense. Cards won three weeks ago, 38-16.

Green Bay 28, Los Angeles 7
— Packers wrap up second place and trip to Miami for Playoff Bowl by reversing earlier 27-17 loss to Rams. Green Bay attack now rolling. With Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung in form and Bart Starr riddling L.A. pass defense, Packers should romp.

Baltimore 28, Washington 14
— Colts tune up for title game by getting back on win path after upset by Lions. Colts' rush will break down Sonny Jurgensen's protection and John Unitas will pick his spots, relying on ground game.

Minnesota 20, Chicago 14
— This is a real toughie. Both Vikings and Bears have been moving lately. Bears won their first meeting, Sept. 20, 34-28, on Bill Wade's passing.

Detroit 21, San Francisco 14
— A battle for two low-scoring teams. Lions won first game 26-17 and still have a shot at second money. It will be up to Milt Plum to take advantage of 49ers' weak air umbrella.

Pittsburgh 14, Dallas 10—The Steelers are erratic but if they're on their game should score enough to win. Pittsburgh won first game 23-17 and Cowboys have lost four straight.

Boog Powell Top Slugger

BOSTON (AP) — John (Boog) Powell, Baltimore's hard-hitting outfielder, won the American League slugging title with a .606 average last season. Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees, a four-time champion, was second with .591, the official averages released today showed.

Powell, a big, left-handed batter, collected 257 total bases in 424 official times at bat. Among his extra base hits were 17 doubles and 39 home runs.

Mantle, the leader in 1955, 1956, 1961 and 1962, had 275 total bases in '64, including 25 doubles, two triples and 35 homers, in 465 official trips.

Tony Oliva of Minnesota, the batting king, was third in slugging with .557 followed by teammates Bob Allison .553 and Harmon Killebrew .548.

Slugging averages are figured by dividing the total of bases accumulated on all hits by the number of times at bat.

OFF THE RECORD

How Can I?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can an amateur wood carver harden the wood that has been cut out or sculptured in the desired shape?
A.—By boiling the pieces in pure olive oil for eight to ten minutes.

Q.—How can I keep my rice grains snowy-white and separate, instead of lumpy?
A.—By adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice to your water.

Q.—How can I, when preparing my laundry starch, avoid the formation of skin over the starch?
A.—By covering the bowl with a piece of cloth, stretched tight, as soon as the starch is made.

Q.—How can I preserve left-over putty for a long time?
A.—Roll your putty into balls and drop these into a jar half-full of water. Add enough water to cover the putty, screw on the top of the jar, and your putty will stay in a workable condition for months. When you have to use it again, pat it dry with a cloth.

Q.—How can I make sure of the removal of cosmetic stains on the necklines of some of my dresses I am washing?
A.—A good hair shampoo rubbed into these stained areas before the dresses are put into the washer will leave the fabric clean and fresh-looking.

Q.—What's the best way to treat a hat that has been caught out in the rain?
A.—Don't hang it on a rack. Push out the dents, turn up the brim evenly, turn out the sweatband, let the hat dry on a level surface, then brush it well.

Q.—How can I cream peas "the easy way"?
A.—A delicious cream sauce for peas is made in a jiffy by heating a can of mushroom soup with a half-cup of vegetable liquor. When the sauce is hot, add the peas.

Junior Editors Quiz on HORIZON

QUESTION: How far away is the horizon?

ANSWER: The horizon is the line where if there are no mountains, trees or other objects to interfere, the sky and the land (or the edge of the sea) seem to join. In mountainous places, it is sometimes difficult to decide just where the horizons is. On the flat prairie, we can see it very clearly as well as at the seashore, where Jane and Fred are admiring the sunlight falling on it, which turns it into a band of glittering silver. How far it is away from you depends on how high you are above the level of the land at the moment you look at it. The top diagram shows that if Jane and Fred had climbed a mountain a mile high, they would look a long way off before sighting the horizon (1), but if they stood at the water's edge as in (2) and the main picture, it would look much nearer. In the last case, if your eyes were four feet above the ground, the horizon would be two and a-half miles away. If you climbed the mile-high mountain, on the other hand, your horizon would lie 96 miles away. The reason we can't see beyond the horizon, even with a telescope, is that the curvature of the earth hides what is beyond from our sight.

FOR YOU TO DO: You can find out where your horizon lies right now, without even going outside. Fold this newspaper you are reading, lift it up with its edge level with your eyes, so you don't see either the top or under side. If you took room, house and everything else away, the line made by the paper edge would be level with the distant horizon.

Dona Sims of Canonsburg, Pa., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly grand prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.

Government In New Crisis

British Guiana Premier Says He Will Not Resign

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — British Guiana headed into a governmental crisis today as Premier Cheddi Jagan said he would not resign. Gov. Sir Richard Luyt consulted with London to determine how the Marxist leader could be forced out.

"I will not resign," Jagan told a news conference. "The British government will have to force me out."

Luyt asked London for an order permitting him to summon the new legislative assembly without the premier's consent. Some sources close to the governor said Jagan's tenure would end with the calling of the assembly.

However, some experts on the South American colony's constitution said there were ambiguities that create a doubt whether Jagan's tenure would end automatically or whether his resignation is required.

Traditionally, premiers resign when defeated in elections. But Jagan charged fraud in the vote Monday which cost him his majority in the assembly. His decision not to resign was backed by a vote of the executive committee of his People's Progressive party.

Luyt held separate meetings with Jagan and two opposition leaders, Forbes Burnham of the People's National Congress and Peter D'Aguiar of the United Force.

Burnham, who is expected to succeed Jagan, announced Thursday that he and D'Aguiar had agreed to form a coalition government. Jagan's party won the most seats — 24 — in Monday's election. But the National Congress with 22 and United Force with 7 would have a five-vote majority as a coalition.

Jagan was believed attempting to use his forced removal from office to discredit the incoming regime and possibly provoke a fresh outburst of racial violence. Meanwhile, he and his wife, the former Janet Rosenberg of Chicago, moved out of the premier's residence.

Jagan, an East Indian, draws his support from that element of the population, while Burnham is a Negro and the leader of his race in the British colony. East Indians outnumber Negroes 3-2. Clashes between the two races took 167 lives during the past year.

Aramic, the language of Jesus, is now spoken by only a few thousand people living in several small villages near Damascus, in Syria. Its general use died out in the 7th century A. D.

OSU To Take Over 4-Story Campus Site

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State University plans to take over a four-story campus structure now used by the Chemical Abstracts Service early next year.

The university trustee agreed Thursday to pay the American Chemical Society $488,000 for its interests in the building, which was financed jointly by the society and Ohio State in 1955.

The society is the parent firm of Chemical Abstracts Service, which moves into new headquarters on Olentangy River Road about Jan. 1.

The university has not decided what activities will be housed in the structure when it takes over the building.

In other actions, the trustees: —Agreed to appointment of Dean O. Clark, former Ohio Department of Education official, as university registrar.

—Approved contract of $711,285 for construction of another four-story dormitory on the north campus.

—Approved plans to turn 2,500 to 3,000 acres along Ohio 97 in Ashland County into a memorial state forest. Of the acreage needed, 1,773 acres are now state owned. The trustees in this matter sat as the board of control of the Agricultural Experiment Station.

—Gave approval to plans for lighting several more campus areas around dormitory complexes.

The trustees were informed by the Navy that the University's ROTC unit is one of four across the nation invited to participate in President Johnson's inauguration Jan. 20. The unit will send a 25-man contingent.

The first use by the American Army of motor vehicles in combat was in May of 1916 when Gen. George S. Patton, then a cavalry lieutenant, used three touring cars to rout a party of Pancho Villa's bandits from their stronghold on the Mexican border.

Percy Kilbride, Pa Kettle Of Movie Fame, Dies At 76

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Percy Kilbride, 76, the Pa Kettle of the movies, died early today at Chase Sanitarium.

He was injured in an auto accident Sept. 21 and underwent brain surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital in Hollywood Nov. 11.

Dr. Barkley Noble said Kilbride died at 12:45 a.m. of hardening of the arteries in the brain and terminal pneumonia. The doctor said he notified Kilbride's sister, Mrs. John L. Crowley of Los Angeles Thursday that her brother was failing fast.

Fame came in his later years to the hawk-nosed comedian with the song-song voice.

He appeared in 800 stage roles, then made his movie debut in 1942. His roles were minor until he and Marjorie Main played a farm couple in "The Egg and I" in 1947.

The characters were lifted from the film and became the basis of the "Ma and Pa Kettle" series. They were immensely popular at the box office, and Kilbride and Miss Main were boosted from character roles to starring parts.

Kilbride was 61 when the series began. The Kettle films made a fortune for the studio, but Kilbride never struck it rich. Work was brief, taxes took too much, and he was type-cast as the back-country farmer.

He retired at 65, lived largely on Social Security, and spent much time walking Hollywood Boulevard. A bachelor, he lived alone in a modest apartment.

On Sept. 17 he and an actor friend, Frank Belmont, 73, were hit by a car as they were crossing a Hollywood intersection. Belmont was killed. At first it was thought Kilbride escaped with minor head injuries.

But Nov. 11 he was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles for brain surgery. Later he was transferred to the sanitarium for recuperation.
